

MS XENOS I

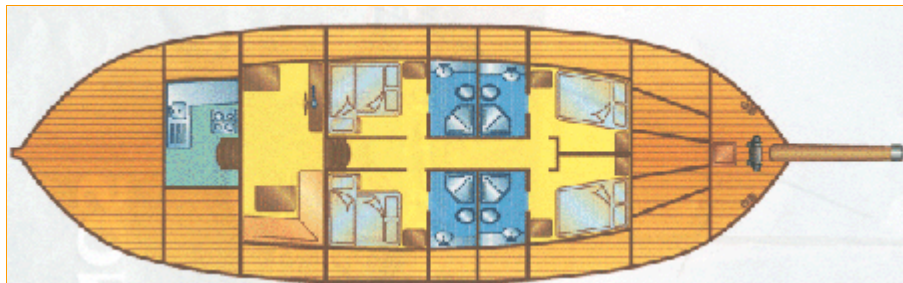

M/S Xenos I was constructed in 2002 to provide the ultimate in sailing experience along the Aegean and Mediterranean coastlines. Tirhandils are "double enders" meaning that they have a pointed stern and bow, and are the descendents of centuries of merchant ships which traversed the Near East. No expense has been spared with this sporting beauty, and she has not sacrificed comfort for sailing prowess.

There are four double cabins, and the two forward cabins also have an additional removable bunk bed for children or extra storage. Each cabin has ensuite home style toilets with fully enclosed showers. Above deck, full navigational equipment, and the finest sailing accessories turn M/S Xenos I into the master of the sea. Her captain has decades of navigational experience and lore.

She has a 40 HP speedboat, water skiing (excluding fuel), windsurfer, canoe, snorkeling and fishing equipment. She is fully air conditioned with an extensively equipped galley. This is truly cruising for connoisseurs.

Technical Specifications

LOA: 20 m
Beam: 6.5 m
Engine: 190 HP IVECO
Generators: 16 KVA Masse
Water: 2 tons
Fuel: 1.5 tons
Electricity: 12V + 24V